Curricular implementation undergoes a continuous review process through grade level professional learning communities. Each grade level teacher participates in the PLC process and utilizes standardized data to assess each student’s needs. Students below average receive an individualized reading intervention plan designed to target instruction for those students. A robust student assistance team process involves parents, classroom teachers, intervention specialist, Native American Advisor, counselor and reading math support. Each stakeholder plays an important role in brainstorming individual strategies to increase student success. Each classroom utilizes What I need (WIN) time for support. During this time direct instruction is halted so students can receive support services. These include reading intervention, math intervention, speech, Physical Therapy, Occupational Therapy, or resource room services. During WIN time classroom teachers and Paras focus on strengthening academic skills of our tier II students. This process occurs in the classroom setting. Students who currently meet or exceed expectations use this time to deepen understanding. Finally a comprehensive after school and summer school program work to enhance student understanding and reduce summer slide.

1. Describe how teachers, in consultation with parents, administrators, paraprofessionals and specialized instructional support personnel will identify children who may benefit from Title I services.

MSTEP, MAP, and BAS scores are all used to determine academic performance. Students identified as tier II and Tier III are evaluated through the student assistance team process. SAT meetings can be initiated by any member of the team, but traditionally are requested by the classroom teacher. Students identified as tier III currently not receiving services are evaluated by the math and/or reading intervention teachers. The SAT process ensures followup for each student. This occurs most typically on a quarterly basis. Students remain in this process until they are deemed eligible for special education in which time the case-provider manages these services, or they achieve grade level standards and are no longer eligible.

SAT data is maintained electronically and managed by the intervention specialist and the school counselor. This info is also maintained in a hard copy form located in the CA-60.

Finally, the school offers food backpacks for our students in highest needs. We provide food cards and gas cards to our homeless families. Snacks are provided in classrooms along with counseling services, eyeglass appointments, and a kids closet for clothing needs.

Lincoln utilizes the Student Assistance Team Process to evaluate needs for students who are not currently identified and to evaluate the need to exit programming. The SAT process is managed by the intervention specialist and school counselor. Each SAT meeting utilizes student behavior and academic data as provided through teacher observation and standardized testing. Finally the SAT process is used to support the need for special education services ensuring LRE and FAPE.

3. Describe how the progress of participating students is monitored and reviewed on an ongoing basis.

Academic progress is reviewed by classroom teachers and reading or math interventionists. Behavior data is reviewed by classroom teachers and the intervention specialist or school counselor. SRSS information, attendance, and behavior data are used for behavior data, MAP, Bass and MSTEP is used for Academic information. MSTEP and SRSS are given 3 times per year.
